Your public library's reputation rests on its trustees both observing the law and behaving in a manner befitting their position of public trust. This summer, Dragomir Cosanici, the Library of Michigan Library Law Specialist, and Martha Seaman McKee, Library Consultant, will combine their two successful workshops into one.

Their goal is to help library trustees successfully fulfill their crucial roles. The workshop's objective will be to educate library trustees and directors on the primary legal and behavioral responsibilities that their positions entail.
