SECTION III WORK STATEMENT

A. Brief Description of Work

This contract is for temporary professional services to assist the Michigan State Police (MSP). The Michigan State Police is requesting assistance with the FY09 Sex Offender Registry (SOR) Enhancement Project by asking for a technology consultant. The selected candidate will assist with research and consultation regarding the SOR and the Criminal History Records (CHR) interface and the SOR document scanning, storage, and retrieval process, as well as writing all technical business requirements for the SOR system enhancements necessary to remain compliant with the new federal Adam Walsh Act, and to review current business practices and recommend improvements and changes to improve efficiency.

B. Background on the work requested

The Sex Offender Registry Enhancement Project continues to progress to attempt to correct the material weaknesses identified to the Governor and the Federal Government in the Michigan Auditor General Report in 2005. With the enactment of the Sex Offender Registration Notification Act (SORNA) in 2006, the SOR project is also faced with a 2009 deadline for adding all of the additional information fields and requirements. Due to the budget restraints, most of the SORNA requirements will wait until 2008 for actual implementation. MSP needs the help of a research and a technology consultant before implementation can occur in order to accomplish those goals and objectives. We must meet each requirement of the new law by April 2009, failure to meet these requirements will result the loss of 10% of federal Byrne grant funding which is distributed to state and local programs.

With over 43,000 offenders, and the addition of 250 offenders each month, the interface with CHR would save thousands of personnel hours of manual labor on the part of the MSP SOR Section to add and correct all the missing conviction information, identifier information, etc, on sex offender registration records. Automating this information sharing process will enable the law enforcement community and the public to receive the best possible data available and keep the state in compliance with the SORNA requirements, as well as repairing the material weakness found in the audit in 2005. The technology consultant will aid in writing the business requirements necessary for DIT to populate and interface these records correctly.

The SOR document scanning, storage, and retrieval process would allow the MSP SOR section to bar code all the registration documents into the SOR system, thus allowing prosecutors to download the registration documents for court directly. With the correct language in place legislatively, this would allow the SOR staff to be removed from the court process for expert witness testimony such that has similarly occurred with the MSP Forensic lab experts. Again, MSP would need help from a technology consultant on how to achieve this goal. Currently, when an offender is arrested for an SOR violation, at least one SOR general office assistant, one SOR technician, and one SOR analyst is involved in the court process paperwork, and one SOR technician and one SOR analyst is involved for court appearance, driving time, and time spent out of the office. With state wide sweeps and only a 60% compliance rate, this causes quite a huge amount of time spent on just the preparation of court documents and driving for only the defendant to plead guilty upon arrival at the court steps. With over 8,000 violators in the state, this places a large strain on the MSP SOR staff just on court preparation time. The scanning process would save a great deal of personnel hours.

Along with the technology, business processes need to be examined and evaluated. Updated and more efficient practices will allow this section to provide technology that is needed to the law enforcement and judicial communities.

This consultation position will be funded through restricted SOR fees enacted by the State legislature.

C. Objectives

MSP's goal is to fulfill the established scope of the project listed in IIIB. Each project has multiple phases to obtain these goals. The technology consultant obtained through this ITB will work with MSP, DIT, Project Office, and any other team members assigned, as well as contractors hired through the State of Michigan contracts.

D. Agency technical environment for the work

The new SOR system is web based client software accessible through the MiCJIN portal using LDAP authentication and security. It integrates with MSP DIT architecture and interfaces with NGL using messaging technology through the CPI switch. Oracle is the database technology used.
