SECTION III WORK STATEMENT

A. Brief Description of Work

The Michigan State Police and the Department of Information Technology are requesting the services of three (3) senior level programmer analysts to complete implementation of the expanded legislative mandates of the Michigan Sex Offender Registration computer system. The senior programmer analysts will be responsible for modifying, coding, testing, and deploying the Michigan Sex Offender Registry system based on the Adam Walsh Act requirement and Michigan Laws, working in a team of delivery-oriented, fast-paced, multiple-system-component environment, abiding by the Software Engineering Methodology and the Project Management Methodology guidelines within the Department of the Information Technology, the Project Office, and the Criminal Justice Information Center within the State Police.

B. Background on the work requested

The Sex Offender Registry system is a web-based offender registration and tracking system that was developed in J2EE platform with an Oracle relational database. The system serves both State Police and the public for accessing the sex offender registration information. The internal system not only supports the administrative functions of keeping registration information current, it provides information to the State Police and other law enforcement agencies to enforce sex offender compliance activities and violation sweeps. All approximately 600-law enforcement agencies in Michigan use this system to update registered sex offender data. The Criminal Justice Information Center within the State Police maintains and supports the state and federal requests of sex offender related information. The publicly accessible Sex Offender Registry system provides a search ability of the Michigan registered sex offender compliance status, demographic data, residence, offense history, and etc. The State of Michigan also participates in the national sex offender website and interfaces with national criminal information databases.

The Adam Walsh Act passed in 2006 broadly expanded the sex offender registration requirement. The SMART office published SORNA implementation guidelines for all jurisdictions in July 2008. The existing functionality of the current Michigan Sex Offender Registry system is no longer in compliance with the Act, nor with the SORNA guidelines. The programmer analysts are requested to provide computer system modification and implementation to meet the regulatory mandates.

C. Objectives

Michigan State Police's goal is to be complaint with the statutory requirements of the Adam Walsh Act and implement the new functionality of the Sex Offender Registry application to improve existing State Police sex offender registration and enforcement processes. The project has multiple phases to implement these requirements. The senior programmer analysts obtained through this ITB will work with MSP, DIT, Project Office, and any other team members assigned, as well as contractors hired through the State of Michigan contracts.

D. Agency technical environment for the work

The Sex Offender Registry system of the State Police is web based client software with databases residing on a server based Oracle platform. The application is accessible through the MiCJIN portal using LDAP authentication and security. The system interfaces with other state-owned systems and databases as well as integrates with federal databases using messaging technology through the CPI switch. The technical environment includes IBM WebSphere, Oracle, Eclipse, Java, Spring and Hibernate frameworks, Google Web Toolkit, and Jasper Report Library.

E. Description of the requested work, including deliverables and knowledge transfer

The 3 senior programmer analysts are responsible for designing and implementing various system library utilities, applications, and services in the JEE client-server environment.

The major deliverables are:

- Modifying and/or creating the existing SOR applications and its interfacing systems to meet federal AWA compliance requirements,
- Implementing system interfaces with the AWA website and central database,

- Implementing system interfaces with SOR and LEIN, SOS, PSOR, NCIC, etc.
- Implementing system functionality and reports for law enforcement efficiency
- Automating digital document retrieval for prosecutors and courts
