

Assembly By-products as Art

General Motors Lansing Delta Township and Charlotte Science Adventure Camp

Environmental engineers from General Motors Lansing Delta Township presented to campers at the Charlotte Science Adventure Camp, a unique way to recycle plastic by-products. Students utilized plastic by-products from a Lansing Delta Township vehicle assembly manufacturing process to create innovative art sculptures. The program aimed to encourage students to think differently in hopes that they can apply the experience when trying to solve future problems.

