DEQ Gelman Web Site Improvements

There are two sets of document lists on the DEQ Gelman web site.

1) The cover letter that we send out about every six weeks, which is listed under "What's New" "List of Recent Documents Sent to Information Repositories" on the web site, will now contain hyperlinks that allow you to directly access documents that are available in digital format (as PDFs). The most recent letter, dated January 19, 2006, has been modified to include those links and is posted on the web site.

2) We have also updated the category lists that are included under the heading "Information Repositories and Contact Information". These now include all documents sent to the Information Repositories from October 1992 through January 19, 2006. Documents available in digital format are also hyperlinked, including all documents currently available on the web site back to the fall of 2003.

These documents will also continue to be posted under "What's New" "Selected Documents". We believe this new format will allow you readily determine which documents are available in digital format, and to more easily access them.

The DEQ's Gelman website can be accessed in two ways:
