Overview of NABA:

The Native American Business Alliance (NABA) proudly promotes Native American Businesses, independently owned and tribally based, in the United States and Canada for procurement opportunities.

NABA is dedicated to helping Native American entrepreneurs build strong, successful and sustainable businesses today and for future generations. Planning for the economic prosperity of our community and culture is an important Native American tenet as we look ahead to the next seven generations. NABA strongly believes Native American owned businesses are fully capable of competing on an equal basis with any business in the private sector, provided they are given the opportunity.

Our founding Elders joined forces with one another and engaged the Native American Business community to come together to achieve the goal of seeking procurement opportunities within governmental agencies and Corporate America. With need, NABA was formed and the organization continues to be an advocate for Native American-Owned Businesses throughout the United States and Canada.

NABA'S corporate partners represent all industries and stands ready to assist in breaking down barriers and empowering our members. No greater benefit can be provided to NABA'S membership than access to the most successful corporations around the world. NABA is proud to be the leading organization in building corporate relationships and experience to respected leaders and entrepreneurs in Indian Country.
