

Peter Manning

Peter Manning is the Division Chief of the Environment, Natural Resources, and Agriculture Division in the Department of Attorney General. He has been with the Attorney General's office for 14 years. He has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and a law degree from the University of Michigan. As legal counsel for the State's three primary resource management agencies, he is familiar with the legal and policy issues associated with the protection and use of water resources. He participated in the legislative workgroup that assisted in drafting the recent amendments to the state statutes governing water withdrawals.