1. HOW THE PROFESSION IS ORGANIZED IN MICHIGAN

OVERVIEW

This guide looks at things that you as a foreign-educated Architect must do to become eligible for architect licensing in Michigan. At the same time, it includes some background and tips on the larger architect profession to give you an idea of the variety of opportunities available as you work to rebuild your career.

REGULATION ARCHITECTS

Architects in Michigan are regulated by the Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (LARA). You must be licensed to practice as an Architect in Michigan.

The guide assumes that you are an international architect who is beginning to build your career in the U.S. and that your Michigan license will be your first U.S. architect's license. The guide will include steps that come before the final state licensing process which includes education and exams.

You will become an Architect by examination. The Architect Registration Examination (ARE) is administered through testing centers by the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB) at www.ncarb.org.

2. ELIGIBILITY FOR ARCHITECT LICENSE

3. TESTS

To obtain an architect license in Michigan, you must take and pass all portions of the ARE. To sit for the ARE, you must apply to NCARB at www.ncarb.org.

CONTENT AREAS OF THE ARCHITECT REGISTRATION EXAMINATION (ARE)

The ARE is split into six divisions (Practice Management, Project Management, Programming & Analysis, Project Planning & Design, Project Development & Documentation, and Construction & Evaluation). The content of each portion is specific to that topic it is offered in.

FAILING THE ARCHITECT REGISTRATION EXAMINATION

If you fail any division of the ARE, you may retake that division again. You can retake a failed division as soon as 60 days after the previous attempt and up to three times within a 12-month period.

PRACTICING FOR THE ARCHITECT REGISTRATION EXAMINATION

There are many different resources that can help you prepare for the content and the testing environment. There are a variety of test preparation resources available for low cost.

NCARB offers examination preparation materials on their website at www.ncarb.org.

4. OTHER CAREERS AND CREDENTIALS

LOWER-LEVEL OPPORTUNITIES

Preparing for licensing takes a significant amount of time, money, and effort. Some professionals choose to seek lower-level positions in architecture to help them meet longer-term licensing goals. If you take a job with fewer responsibilities but with access to a supervising architect, you may find some distinct advantages. These include the ability to build job security, polish technology skills and adapt to the US workplace culture in a lower-pressure environment, and to have more energy left over to focus on preparing for licensing exams.

Preparing for the ARE can take time. Working in an architecture field in a different way and with fewer responsibilities may offer you some advantages, such as:

- more energy to focus on studying
- a chance to adapt to the U.S. architecture workplace culture in a lower-pressure environment

You should be honest with your employer about your long-term plans. You may find some employers have benefits such as tuition reimbursement or schedule flexibility that will support your goals.

5. BEYOND LICENSING

MAINTAINING LICENSURE

An Architects license is renewed every 2 years and expires on October 31st. The cost to renew each license is $70 and must be renewed online at BPL's website using the online payment system. LARA will send a notification reminding you to renew your license however, this is a courtesy reminder and it is the licensee's responsibility to renew the license in a timely manner. Be sure to keep your contact information up to date with the Licensing Division to ensure notices are received. If the license expires for more than 60 days, you will be required to apply for relicensure to reactivate the license.

As a condition of license renewal, an individual licensed as an Architect in Michigan shall complete an average of 12 hours of continuing professional education in HSW subjects annually. HSW subjects means technical and professional subjects, relevant to the practice of architecture, which contain elements that will enhance the public's health, safety, and welfare.

LICENSING MOBILITY (RECIPROCITY)

There is not a direct reciprocal agreement between Michigan and other states for licensing at this time. This means that if you earn your Architect license in Michigan and wish to perform architecture services to people or organizations in other states, you will need to research the process for that state and learn how to practice temporarily or permanently there.
