Jeremy Geda

Nursing

Mott Community College

Nominator: Teri Hill, Nursing Instructor

"I have worked in military law enforcement, retail, construction, security, and government, as well as the automotive industry. All of these jobs provided adequate pay, but it wasn't until a chance encounter with my family member, Dave, who had a tragic automobile accident, that I discovered a rewarding job meant more than just a satisfying paycheck."

Jeremy worked with Dave to achieve "small goals, medium milestones, and increased self-esteem and health" and found that it "complemented my caring, nurturing, and dedicated traits." Jeremy commented that he has pursued Nursing so that he "might find personal fulfillment as he assists others on their road to recovery and healthy living."

His nominator, Teri Hill, Nursing Faculty at Mott Community College, said that she thought of Jeremy as soon as she read the criteria for this prestigious award. "I found his passion for quality nursing care and his humor to be therapeutic for patients, staff, peers, and myself," she stated.

Jeremy's life experience as an active community member, coach, volunteer, and as a military policeman attests to his natural leadership abilities and commitment to social responsibility. In addition to balancing the rigors of nursing school, Jeremy raises three children and volunteers as a leader in their activities.

Jeremy has been working part-time as a Licensed Practical Nurse for a year. He is very happy with this career choice and plans to graduate with his Associate Degree in Nursing from Mott Community College with a 3.39 grade point average.

His ultimate career goal is to obtain a Doctorate as a Nurse Practitioner (DNP) in Psychiatry. He wishes to work with individuals with mental disorders.

We should view ourselves
not as men and women,
but as students".
