

Model Standards for Out-of-School Time After-School Programs in Michigan

Self-Assessment Checklist

How to use the Model Standards for Out-of-School Time/After-School Programs in Michigan Self-Assessment Checklist

This document was developed as a companion to the Model Standards for Out-of-School Time/After-School Programs in Michigan (Model Standards) which were adopted by the Michigan State Board of Education in August 2008 and endorsed by the Michigan After-School Partnership and the Michigan AfterSchool Association. The Self-Assessment Checklist will assist schools and other organizations in developing high-quality, comprehensive out-of-school time programs. The standards are based on research concerning quality programs for school-age children.

A set of critical components for out-of-school time programs is presented in the Model Standards document as six distinct areas for which quality standards have been established. These components are:

- Health, Safety, and Nutrition;
- Human Relationships and Staffing;
- Indoor and Outdoor Environment;
- Program and Activities;
- Administration; and
- Single-Purpose Programs.

This document may be used as a guide to developing and evaluating out-of-school time programs for children in kindergarten through eighth grade. While not targeted for programs serving high school students, many of these standards may be applicable to these programs as well. The Model Standards are voluntary for all programs, except those programs specifically mandated by their funding. The Model Standards indicate very high-quality. This Self-Assessment Checklist is recommended, along with other research-based assessment tools for program monitoring and self-assessment [i.e., Youth Program Quality Assessment (YPQA), Afterschool Program Assessment System (APAS), Quality Assurance System (QAS)].

Rating the Quality of Your Program

It is recommended that programs use a team approach when conducting the self-assessment. Greater strides will be made when all involved parties contribute to the process and help shape a program's goals. The process below describes the procedure that can be used by an entire after-school staff to conduct a program self-assessment. Professionals are encouraged to adapt the same process to include participating youth, families and community partners.

Participants of this program self-assessment process should individually rate the content and management of the program based on the frequency with which the program achieves higher levels of quality as described in each of the Model Standards and indicators.

- The sections below each standard are indicators of how that Model Standard may be seen in an after-school program. Not all indicators will be present in each program.
- The Comment/Evidence rows allow space to include examples of how that particular standard is observed at the program. Notes in the Comments sections will help describe what was observed and support the rating that is selected.

- Use the following scale to determine the rating and frequency of the standards and indicators within the program:
 - o “Mastered” is checked if the indicator describing the Model Standard is present consistently at a high level of quality.
 - o “In Place” is checked if the indicator is present some of the time, but may not be consistent across all program components or not followed consistently.
 - o “Planned” is checked if the indicator is not currently present, but plans to include this component to increase program quality will be developed.
 - o “N/A” is checked only in instances of program components that do not apply based on the type of program that is being rated (only those components not shaded may be rated as “N/A”).

Using a Team Approach to Program Quality Self-Assessment and Goal Setting

A Program Leader or Site Director can facilitate this process by:

- Engaging all program staff in the launch of the self-assessment process, emphasizing the value of program quality improvement.
- Distributing the Model Standards for Out-of-School Time / After-School Programs in Michigan and the Self-Assessment Checklist to all program staff; ensuring that staff review and become familiar with them in advance.
- Allotting each staff member the necessary time to complete an individual self-assessment for all Model Standards to the best of their knowledge and experiences.
- Convening program staff as a group to discuss their individual observations, agreeing on a group consensus rating, and deciding on the top priorities for quality improvement.
- Creating a program-wide Self-Assessment Checklist that reflects the staff’s agreement on ratings and consensus of priorities for improvement.
- Developing program goals within a Quality Action Plan (QAP).
- Monitoring the QAP and its timelines to ensure progress is being made on schedule.
- Celebrating your team’s successes in meeting your own program’s goals for improvement!
