Rosemary Hagan held employment with the Traverse Bay Area Intermediate School District for 14 years as a General Education consultant. While at TBAISD, she supported 20 public and private school districts within the five county NW Michigan area with all aspects of school improvement. Her areas of expertise include data disaggregation and interpretation, including NWEA, MME, and MEAP data; Title I-A; McKinney Vento Homeless Act; curriculum mapping and alignment; Tech Prep and Career Preparation regional and multiple ISD coordination; successful local, state, and federal grant writing and management; and the development of action plans and protocols for use by content area professional learning communities.

Dr. Hagan also co-developed the first online high school in Michigan, e-schoolhouse.org; a multiple ISD consortium offering a broad array of middle and high school courses, learning management system oversight, and training of online teachers and mentors.

As president of Hagan Consulting and Training, Dr. Hagan has offered communication and consensus training, group facilitation, and logic model grant and program training to schools, agencies, and business for over 20 years.
