From: Startrans Bus
Re: Startrans Bus Final Assembly Point

Supreme Corporation's Startrans Bus Division assembles the Senator and Candidate bus at 2592 E. Kercher Road, Goshen, Indiana. Startrans will assemble its body on a cutaway model chassis. The chassis is manufactured by Ford Motor. The chassis comes complete as a self-contained unit complete with a drive-train (engine, transmission, driveshaft, and rear drive axle), suspension, braking, steering, dashboard instruments, and other systems relating to the vehicle drivability. Then Startrans Bus will fabricate the passenger portion of the vehicles. The bus assembly line has 18 production slots. In each slot, a production worker has a specific job to do and parts to install. A bus will be on the production line for three days. After it comes off the line, it goes to the water test bay, undercoating, and then to paint. When finished with these areas, the bus goes to final finish. In this area they finish installing any option that wasn't installed, all seats and all safety equipment. Total production time will run approximately 18 working days.

The bus is given to quality control after it comes out of final finish. QC will do all final inspections of the total unit and run all options to insure they are all working in accordance with the supplier's specs. Then they take all units on a road test to check for noise in the body and again check the options. When QC has finished all their checks and has signed off all inspection papers, the unit is then given to the shipping department.

The total assembly of Startrans buses (Senator and Candidate) is done in Goshen, IN.
