In addition to the "LT" restriction, you may see a temporary instruction permit, operator or chauffer license with the restriction "NC". This too is not material to the person's driving or their eligibility to take a skills tests. Examiners do not need to report the restriction on the score sheet or skills test certificate.

Subject: Notice to all testers: LT restriction

Some temporary instruction permits, operator, and chauffer licenses will show a new restriction code. The "LT" restriction designates that the person holding the license has a limited term legal presence status.

The restriction is not material to the person's driving or their eligibility to take a skills test. Examiners do not need to report the restriction on the score sheet or skills test certificate.
