Cutters Studios is an international creative company that provides top-tier production, post-production and creative development services for causes, brands, studios, networks and agencies. From production, editorial, audio mixing and sound design, to visual effects and motion graphic design and on to color and finish, Cutters Studios is capable of taking any project from concept to distribution.

Headquartered in Chicago with company-owned offices in New York, Los Angeles, Detroit, Kansas City and Tokyo, Cutters Studios is an award-winning company with a deep history of providing compelling creative work to the national advertising community. Formed in 1980 by current President and CEO Tim McGuire, Cutters Studios has been a trusted creative partner to the advertising industry for nearly forty years. At the core of Cutters Studios lies the unparalleled talent of creative professionals united around a common focus: provide our clients with the most creative product possible.

Each individual discipline of production, post production and interactive stands on its own as a leader in its field, while maximizing the resources and strengths of the Cutters Studios foundation. Led by acknowledged specialists and pioneers in their respective disciplines, each individual brand is well established among the world's best. What makes us unique is the way the creative talents of all brands can be brought together on any given project, providing a transparent and highly efficient all-in-one scope of services for our clients.

Cutters Studios has offices in the top advertising markets in the U.S. along with Tokyo, Japan. With projects being shot in various locales and schedules often times being tight, it is common for work to begin in one of our offices and move to another. Our offices are strategically located, efficiently connected and when combined with a mobile creative staff, we provide a compelling solution for our agency partners. We are proud of the geographic footprint we have developed at Cutters Studios – and yet we take pride in overcoming borders and boundaries. With a combination of a mobile creative workforce, leveraging of technology, and consistent workflows in our locations, we are able to offer solutions and pricing to clients that are location-transparent.

New York

Our beautifully designed New York boutique sits in the heart of lower Manhattan's trendy SoHo neighborhood.

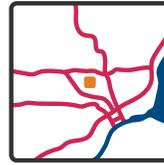

Chicago

The Chicago office is ideally located in the River North neighborhood in downtown. Serving as the company's headquarters, we're just minutes from all the major agencies in the city.

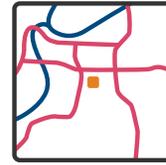

Los Angeles

Our Los Angeles space is located in the Santa Monica creative community. The office serves all agencies in the western U.S. and frequently acts as a starting point for out-of-market projects that need to begin the post process while shooting in the LA area.

Detroit

Similar in scope and size to the Chicago offering, the Detroit office is located in Oak Park with a satellite downtown and offers a full complement of production and post production as well as digital services.

Kansas City

Our Kansas City office is located in the newly restored Historic Hemingway Building in the heart of the Crossroads District. We are excited to be a part of the creative rebirth that has taken hold in Kansas City over the past few years.

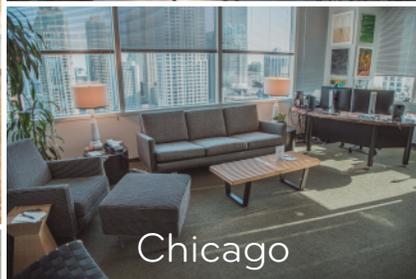

Tokyo

Conveniently located in the Ebisu district, with a mix of American and Japanese talent with fluent bilingual capabilities, the Tokyo office provides an excellent option for agencies and companies with creative needs in the Asia-Pacific region.
