

Bring Workers Back From Unemployment

WorkShare

RESTART BUSINESS.
RETAIN TALENT.

WHAT IS WORK SHARE?

HOW DOES IT WORK?

During this global pandemic, we know that many Michigan businesses are faced with extremely difficult choices to make when it comes to their workforce.

You may be struggling to reopen your business and reengage your employees. However, with Work Share, you may not have to.

Michigan's Work Share program allows employers to restart their business and bring employees back from unemployment. Employers can bring employees back with reduced hours - while employees collect partial unemployment benefits to make up a portion of the lost wages. Employers can also retain their current workforce and are given the flexibility to choose which of their employees are part of a Work Share plan.

With the Work Share program, a worker receives a reduced salary from an employer, but is given a percentage of their state benefits plus the additional $300 federal benefit through September 4, 2021. The reduction in work hours must result in an equivalent reduction in wages.

Example: If a worker's weekly wages are $1,000, yet the employer needs to reduce their salary/hours by 30%. Under Work Share, their weekly salary would be $700.00 ($$1,000 - 30\% = \700) plus 30% of their state unemployment benefits ($$362 \text{ maximum} \times .30 = \108), plus an additional $300 federal payment through September 4, 2021.

With Work Share, the employee would earn $1,108/week through September 4, 2021 vs. $362 maximum amount in UI benefits alone.

As businesses are reopened, Work Share can help employers bring back their employees from unemployment faster and allows employers to retain their workforce and avoid layoffs.
