

Derby Downs

Game Instructions

BACKGROUND

Derby Downs is a charity game ticket where the top two winners are determined by the drawing of bingo balls in conjunction with a bingo game or played separately using bingo balls or other authorized random drawing of 75 numbers. A deal includes 53 instant winners, 15 horse downline HOLD tickets, and 15 jockey downline HOLD tickets. Instant winners are redeemed as players turn them in.

Each downline HOLD ticket contains five numbers that correspond with a column of numbers on a bingo flashboard. Players should retain HOLD tickets until all tickets in the deal have been sold, the corresponding bingo game or drawing has occurred, and the first downline has been determined.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Before bingo begins or before the drawing of numbers for Derby Downs:
 - a. Two players must witness that all 75 numbers are included in the drawing. If Derby Downs is not being played during a weekly bingo game, the witnesses must sign the flare card acknowledging all numbers are included and the flare card must be a part of the game records.
 - b. An announcement must be made giving the serial number of the deal(s) being sold and when the drawing or bingo game for those tickets will be conducted.
 - c. All tickets in the deal must be sold.
2. Begin the drawing or bingo game, ensuring the drawn numbers are announced and that two or more players are able to see the numbers as they are being drawn.
3. Players can dab the numbers on their downline HOLD tickets as they are called.
4. At bingo, once all five numbers in a downline on the flashboard are called, the horse and jockey HOLD tickets with the corresponding downline are potential winners. If at least one of those players calls bingo (or other indicator to stop the game), the game stops and the winners are verified.
5. Whether a player calls "bingo," "derby," or "balls" is irrelevant, however, it is the responsibility of at least one player to stop the game. Otherwise the drawing continues.
6. A worker verifies each winning ticket at a neutral table, ensuring each has the correct serial number, all five bingo numbers on the ticket have been called, and the last number called is on the ticket.
7. The player holding the winning horse HOLD ticket wins $100 and the player holding the winning jockey HOLD ticket wins $75.
8. Once the winners have been verified, remaining non-winner HOLD tickets for the serial number(s) just played are no longer valid.
9. If the second HOLD ticket winner has not been identified, an announcement is made that the unclaimed ticket holder has up to 14 days to claim their prize, the last number called for the downline is recorded on the flare card, and the flare card is signed by the caller. For the next two weeks or until all HOLD winners have been claimed, the flare must be posted at any consecutive bingo game. It must be a part of game records and available for review by players or representatives of the bureau.
