Section 615 (2): The report shall include the following information on parolable lifers who have served more than 25 years: prisoner name, MDOC identification number, prefix, offense for which life term is being served, county of conviction, age at time offense was committed, current age, race, gender, true security classification, dates of parole board file reviews, dates of parole board interviews, parole guideline scores, and reason for decision not to release.

¹ Parole guideline scores are only calculated when the Parole Board is faced with the decision whether to release a parolable lifer on parole. The parole release decision is made after the prisoner has been interviewed, has avoided judicial veto, and has had a public hearing.

² The following are identified reasons why parole board action, Murder First Interview, exist for some Parolable Lifers:

- The prisoner was resentenced from Murder 1st Degree to Murder 2nd Degree at some point during his/her incarceration.
- The prisoner was sentenced to Murder 1st as a juvenile and has since been resentenced to a term of years but still has a parolable Life sentence to serve.
- The prisoner was mistakenly entered in the system as serving for Murder 1st Degree and during an audit it was discovered that he was sentenced to Murder 2nd Degree.
- Change in the 650 Drug Lifer Law (October 1, 1998); changing it from a mandatory Life sentence to a parolable Life sentence.
