Marijuana-Infused Product: Enforcement Guidance for Edible and Non-Edible Products (Updated)

The intent of this bulletin is to provide applicants and licensees with written and pictorial guidance regarding marijuana-infused product packaging. Producers, sales locations, and microbusinesses who manufacture or sell marijuana-infused products should take note of the following rule requirements. This list is not all-inclusive and merely highlights some key areas that should be considered.

R 420.403(7) in the Marijuana-Infused Products and Edible Marijuana Product Rule set says a producer shall label all marijuana-infused product with all of the following: “The name of the marijuana-infused product that includes a product modifier such as ‘marijuana product,’ ‘THC product,’ or ‘cannabis product’ using the same or larger font than the product name.”

The CRA is aware of non-compliant marijuana-infused product packaging available in the market today. Producers of non-compliantly packaged products have the following options:

- Repackage the products into new, compliant packaging.
- Place non-transparent stickers on the package to clearly label the product as a marijuana product, THC product, or cannabis product using the same or larger font as the words commonly used in the product name.
- Place non-transparent stickers on non-compliant portions of the packaging for marijuana-infused products.
- Voluntarily destroy the non-compliant product.

The Medical Marijuana Facilities Licensing Act prohibits provisioning centers from transferring marijuana products back to processors in the supply chain.

- As a result, provisioning centers and adult-use retailers have the following options:

- Place non-transparent stickers on the package to clearly label the product as a marijuana product, THC product, or cannabis product using the same or larger font as the words commonly used in the product name.
- Place non-transparent stickers on non-compliant portions of the packaging for marijuana-infused products.
- Voluntarily destroy the non-compliant product.
- Adult-use retailers can compliantly send marijuana products back to adult-use processors via a secure transporter.

Marijuana businesses choosing to use adhering non-transparent stickers as a solution to fix non-compliant packaging must ensure the stickers are attached to the marijuana-infused product packaging before the product is sold to customers. Adhering stickers to the product after customer purchase is a violation of R 420.403.

The restrictions in this bulletin do not apply to in-store displays that advertise the marijuana-infused edible products to in-store customers. Marijuana businesses may use displays for marijuana-infused edible products if the displays:

- Stay within the business and are not in view of the public outside of the business.
- Are not actual marijuana packaging, but a picture image of the packaging.

Except for products for which there are no acceptable modifications, the CRA Enforcement Division's Field Operations team will educate marijuana businesses regarding the use of modifiers for infused non-edible products and – effective March 1, 2023 – will conduct investigations when necessary for infused non-edible products or packaging not in compliance with the rules.
