Direct Service Grants

Ongoing thanks and appreciation for your commitment to Michigan's communities!

RFP Notification Sites

The FY2011- FY2014 RFP was posted on EGrAMS on June 11, 2010 at <http://egramms-mi.com/ctf>. The CTF direct services grant opportunity will also be listed on www.bid4michigan.com. There is no fee to register at bid4michigan.com; however, you must continuously check online to see when grant opportunities are posted. There is a $50 fee to receive ongoing email notification of grant fund availability in this new system. The $50 fee affords you additional advance search engine options, which makes it easier to negotiate the bid4michigan website, according to bid4michigan.com technical support. Please note that you must know the NIGP Code for any RFP or ITB in order to view it. The NIGP for the CTF RFP when it is posted will be Human Services Code "95217." Anyone registered on this system must have identified this NIGP Code for receiving grant opportunity notification.

CTF strongly recommends that anyone interested in various bid opportunities on the bid4michigan.com website to participate in the bid process. All future CTF bids will go through this new system. Bidders may also call BidNet Support at (800) 677-1997, Ext. 214.

A second option for receiving CTF bid notifications is to register on EGrAMS (<http://egramms-mi.com/ctf>), at the start page, at the "Grant Opportunity Notification" link on the left-hand side. When grants are posted to EGrAMS, an email notification will go out to the registrants.

Direct Services Work Group

The June 3 Direct Services Work Group meeting was well attended by 12 grantees. The Peer Review Survey results were reviewed and emailed to the group on June 5. If you are interested in creating and/or participating in a peer review pilot process in FY2011, please contact Sarah Davis at CTF. An update was also provided on the status of the parent leadership training for parents in direct service programs. The date of the training is July 27-28, 2010, at the Washtenaw County ISD. CTF is paying all related training costs. The training application will be distributed the week of June 14, and a pre-training teleconference for grantees will take place on July 15. Please contact Sarah Davis with any questions.

CTF is working on a time tracking model in response to the DS Cost Allocation training Bill Addison provided earlier this year. CTF will also begin highlighting, each month, a different direct service program in our News Briefs, on our website, and with social media. This will help to inform the CTF readers about the various direct services.

The next Direct Services Work Group teleconference will be scheduled outside of its normal first Thursday, bimonthly date; therefore, the date is changed to August 26, from 1:00 p.m. – 2:30 p.m. A reminder will go out prior to the meeting.

Site Visits

The scheduling of the direct service site visits will begin on July 7. Derrick Hartwell will coordinate the scheduling dates.

August Local Council Workgroup Meeting

The next local council workgroup meeting will be Thursday, August 5, at 10:00 a.m. At that time, we will be returning to our regular schedule (the first Thursday of the month at 10:00 a.m.). The phone conference line for that meeting is 877-336-1828, access code 8088351. There will be no meeting in July.

CAP Month Survey Highlights

Last month councils completed a survey to capture key information that will assist CTF in its ongoing CAP Month efforts. The survey addressed a range of issues related to both local council CAP Month activities as well as CTF support of these efforts. The results of the survey included data on the reach within communities; feedback on the CAP Month toolkit; the types of activities that were sponsored; and input on the processes developed to support local councils. The results are important to our efforts to continually improve upon CAP Month. A summary of CAP Month survey results can be found at http://www.michigan.gov/documents/ctf/CAP_Month_Toolkit_Highlights_324261_7.pdf

Tier Projects

What began at the October 2009 annual training has since unfolded into amazing projects from workgroups composed of each local council tier level. Each workgroup decided to pursue endeavors which they believed would enhance their councils' development and growth and would benefit other tiers as well. The results of these projects, while not meant to be prescriptive or required, will provide useful information common to all councils, and can potentially enable common standards of practice. Each tier group has been meeting monthly via Webinar and phone conference to move their respective projects forward. See below for details about each tier project.

- Tier I – The group's focus is to address board recruitment and retention concerns. Their approach is to look at creating a board recruitment process, utilizing in part, research-based information. At the next meeting, the group will be reviewing process documentation.

- The group will next meet on Monday, July 26, at 10:00 p.m.

- To register for the Webinar portion of the meeting, go to the following link: <https://www2.gotomeeting.com/register/716637490>. The audio portion of the meeting will be 877-336-1828, access code 8088351.

- Tier II – The tier II group is also addressing board concerns. Their focus is to create a board member orientation information guide. At the next meeting, a number of documents for the resource guide will be reviewed including: board member guidelines, application, background check, council overview, confidentiality agreement and board member job description.

- The group will next meet on Monday, July 19, at 10:00 a.m.

- To register for the Webinar portion of the meeting go to the following link <https://www2.gotomeeting.com/register/303208875>. The audio portion of the meeting will be 877-336-1828, access code 8088351.

- Tier III – The tier III group is creating a volunteer resource toolkit. Once this component of the project is completed, they would also like to develop a media toolkit. They are currently reviewing volunteer toolkit documentation. At the next meeting, a number of documentation pieces will be reviewed including background check, application and interview questions. A volunteer hours spreadsheet is currently being modified to automatically make prescribed calculations.

- The group will next meet on Monday, June 21, at 10:00 a.m.

- To register for the Webinar portion of the meeting, go to: <https://www2.gotomeeting.com/register/704063042>. The audio portion of the meeting will be 877-336-1828, access code 8088351.

Each project is progressing well due to the high-energy contributions of the local council representatives who participate in these meetings. Next steps for all projects include but are not limited to completion and approvals of all documentation, and the rollout process.

A Special Thank You!

Your overwhelming passion for the mission of the Children's Trust Fund is deeply appreciated! Thank you for your dedication, enthusiasm, and hard work to make our eighth annual "Cherish the Children" Signature Auction Event a huge success!

Because of you, the event raised over $345,000 for child abuse prevention programs in Michigan and hosted nearly 550 guests! We are grateful for your continued support, generosity, and commitment to this very important issue of child abuse prevention. As the event has grown, so has the number of champions for children. You have helped us prove that a group of committed individuals can make a difference, even in times such as these. On behalf of the Children's Trust Fund, I would like to express a heartfelt thanks to our Legislative Co-Chairs, CTF Board, the entire Advisory Committee and Sub-Committee Co-Chairs, Sponsors, Auction Item Donors, and the many, many supporters and volunteers that made the event possible. We could not have done this without each and every one of you!

Thank you for making a difference in the life of a child!

Research and Resources

New Original Series 'Dad Camp'

A new television series is on VH1 called Dad Camp. PR Newswire (May 19, 2010) wrote, "In the series Dad Camp, licensed psychologist and no-nonsense therapist Dr. Jeff Gardere works with six fathers-to-be, along with their pregnant girlfriends, to help prepare the young men for fatherhood—a responsibility that they're just not ready for yet....In addition, the National Fatherhood Leaders Group has developed a discussion guide to help facilitate conversations about the issues brought up in the show, including the economic and emotional demands of being a parent. The guide will be found on all of the partners' web sites, as well as "20 Reasons Why a Child Needs an Active Father in Their Life," which provide research findings that support the needs for young fathers to embrace parenthood. The sites will also feature resource pages, linking readers directly to information, advice and support regarding responsible fatherhood. VH1's Dad Camp dedicated site is at www.dadcamp.vh1.com."

June is National Internet Safety Month

The month of June is National Internet Safety Month. This is an occasion to promote online safety to reduce risks to children. Resources for Internet safety are available from a variety of agencies, including the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children's website at http://www.missingkids.com/missingkids/servlet/PageServlet?LanguageCountry=en_US&PageId=3026.

Program Resources for Fatherhood Involvement

Fathers Network

The Fathers Network is an online resource to support fathers and families raising children with special health care needs and developmental disabilities. The site is at www.fathersnetwork.org.

GreatDad.com

With the motto, "Dads don't always think like Moms," Greatdad.com is an online parenting resource that is geared toward the father's point of view. This resource can be found at www.greatdad.com.

National Responsible Fatherhood Clearinghouse

The National Responsible Fatherhood Clearinghouse "provides access to print and electronic publications, timely information on fatherhood issues, and targeted resources that support OFA-funded Responsible Fatherhood and Healthy Marriage grantees. The NRFC Web site also provides essential information for other audiences interested in fatherhood issues." This resource may be found at www.fatherhood.gov.

Keepers of the Special Dreams

“When fathers learn that their child will have lifelong special needs or that they have a dangerous illness, their reactions can range from shock, to acceptance, to greater love. Fathers often try and meet these challenges with courage and ingenuity. Many fathers are highly committed to their special needs children and devote long hours to the physical and emotional care of their children” (Brotherson & Dollahite, 1997).

Father involvement is a key practice to preventing child abuse among all children, especially those with special needs. Accessible fathers are exceptionally suited to both protect their special needs child and move them toward independent self-protection. This is done by being the keeper of their dreams.

Children need a father who believes their unique dreams are both significant and attainable. At the start, special needs children may need dreams of doing what others do so easily and routinely—things like speaking for the autistic or walking for those with cerebral palsy. But their hard-fought accomplishments are just as significant. As life progresses, the dreams for these children will take various forms as they make their life choices for work, relationships, and hobbies.

Despite the best intentioned efforts of communities to understand the special dreams of these children, they may often feel isolated and alone. Having a father who understands their dreams and helps them achieve them is priceless.

When Detroit Tiger’s pitcher Ryan Perry earned his first major league save on April 11, 2010, he gave the ball to his dad. Two weeks later when Detroit Tiger’s rookie Austin Jackson hit his first major league home run, he gave that ball to his father for his trophy case. Most fathers can dream of being in this situation, even if the odds are against it. However, fathers of special needs kids are unlikely to entertain the dream of professional achievements for their children, as the goal is often independence and respectability as a person and citizen.

But a game ball should go to all the fathers of special needs children this year, because what you do at home can save the dreams of your child and make the difference between laughter or tears, socialization or stagnation, hope or despair, and independence or institutionalization. Brandi Snyder said something that aptly describes how special needs children depend on their fathers: “To the world you may be just one person, but to one person you may be the world.”

20 MSU Advertising and Public Relations Students Volunteer this Summer

Twenty undergraduate students in Michigan State University's Department of Advertising, Public Relations, and Retailing programs (APRR) have accepted volunteer internships working in CTF local affiliates and other non-profit agencies through efforts stimulated by the department's relationship with CTF. CTF and local councils across the state of Michigan received 14 student interns. In addition, the American Diabetes Association—Michigan Chapter, Ann Arbor Center for Independent Living, Cranbrook Institute of Science, and Highfields, Inc. received a total of six students. Students will spend the summer working on various projects for each organization, and write a brief report at the end of the summer. MSU alumni from the College of Communication Arts and Sciences have stressed the importance of students interning for nonprofit organizations during their time at MSU. "It is very important for the students to get as much experience under their belt as they can. It will help differentiate themselves from other graduates when applying for jobs," says Children's Central project coordinator Nicole Marble.

Now You See Me, Now You Don't! Phantom Smokers Really Do Exist

In an effort to better understand young smokers and how to help them quit, Children's Central Director Nora Rifon, along with coauthors Youjin Choi and Marina Choi, identified a new type of smoker. Phantom smokers, people who smoke cigarettes but do not consider themselves smokers, may require a new approach to convince them to stop smoking. In her paper titled "I Smoke But I am Not a Smoker: Phantom Smokers and the Discrepancy Between Self-identity and Behavior," accepted for publication in the Journal of American College, Rifon and her colleagues identified that an overwhelming majority of those who smoke do not identify with the label of being a smoker. "Being a smoker is so stigmatized, that some young people who admit to smoking cigarettes do not want to be associated with the profile of a smoker."

The CTF award has stimulated a plethora of interest by faculty in the department of Advertising, Public Relations, and Retailing and other MSU faculty in submitting grant proposals to research child abuse and neglect prevention. There are currently several grant applications under review. Thirty research projects are underway in association with the CTF/MSU collaborative. All projects support the ethical treatment of children.
