Consolidated Print Center

The Consolidated Print Center (CPC) provides high-volume mainframe and network print services to all state agencies. We can accommodate a variety of data streams and have several software tools available that can compose and format documents. We have the ability to manage a one-time print request or improve existing processes by managing many of your routine office mailings.

Examples of some recent accomplishments include the printing of DNR E-Licenses from the Internet and working with Retirement Services to process files generated from their new client-server pension system.

PRINTING

CPC printers are designed for high volume production print applications. These printers offer:

- Duplex and simplex imaging.
- Both cut-sheet and pin-feed stocks of various sizes are utilized on a number of different print devices.
- Variable data merging onto static electronic or pre-printed forms. All the necessary resources are digitally archived.
- Mainframe cut-sheet highlight color printing that can produce one additional color with black ink.

The CPC works closely with Mail & Delivery Services (MDS) to ensure any new application development meets U.S. Postal Service standards for postal discounts to maximize overall savings. Proximity to MDS also eliminates logistics between print and mail and enables instant reprints for pieces damaged during processing. Analysts can work with your staff to determine the most efficient manner to complete your request.

FILE PROCESSING

We support several transfer protocols from a Windows environment and can work with your staff to decide the best available method for processing data files.

FORMS CREATION

Our technicians use several mainframe and network composition tools to create electronic form overlays. We have the resources available to provide conditional placement of variable data onto either a pre-printed or electronic document.
