

ATTORNEY GENERAL BILL SCHUETTE Community Seminar Welcome

Length: 1 minute, 57 seconds

Hi everybody, I'm Bill Schuette Michigan's Attorney General. Welcome to the Michigan Cyber Safety Initiative or Michigan CSI this Community Seminar. Thanks for giving my team and giving me the opportunity to share helpful tips to keep your family safe.

You know my wife Cynthia and I are the parents of two children and we understand that everyone wants to be connected and we recognize that today's children are part of this digital generation and they've grown up with computers and smart phones and tablets and all sorts of devices.

And while the web offers countless advantages, you know dangerous or explicit materials are only a click away. If you click on a bad link on a website it's like taking a wrong turn in a bad part of town. Predators lurk everywhere on the internet and that's why it is important, so important to make sure we know what our children are doing online.

This Community Seminar covers the online dangers that most frequently threaten today's students and it'll provide you with practical tools and safety tips. You'll also hear about the topics we covered in Michigan CSI student presentations and how we've encouraged your student to talk with you about anything and I mean anything that makes them uncomfortable.

My team will also provide you with information about the OK2SAY program which is Michigan's brand new school safety initiative and what ok means for students so that we can report any behavior that threatens their safety or the safety of others.

I'm confident you'll find this Community Seminar information useful and I'd encourage you to go to my website at michigan.gov/ag for more resources. Thank you for joining me in the fight to keep Michigan's families safe. These programs, just let me say, are all about safety, they're all about security and they're all about our children. Thanks a lot.
