

MICHIGAN'S OPIOID CRISIS AFFECTS EVERYONE.

So it takes all of us working together to end it.

The opioid crisis is widespread. It's affecting people of all ages, genders and races all across the country. The State of Michigan is fighting this epidemic with a unified team. You can help by being aware of and sharing these resources and programs with friends and family. Together we can stop overdoses.

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services is committed to building awareness of the growing opioid problem by running a statewide educational campaign and supporting local treatment services. All across Michigan there are treatment options, resources and support for Michigan families affected by this crisis.

The Michigan State Police Angel Program allows an individual struggling with drug addiction to walk into a state police post during regular business hours and ask for assistance. If accepted into the program, an "Angel" volunteer will support the person during the process and provide transportation to a treatment facility.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality Drug Take Back Program educates and promotes proper drug disposal to the public and healthcare providers. Find drug disposal resources, residential takeback locations, and educational materials such as shareable videos at www.michigan.gov/deqdrugdisposal.

The Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs administers the Michigan Automated Prescription System (MAPS). MAPS is a software tool that provides prescribers and dispensers with real-time prescription data and analytics to help clinicians make informed decisions and additional resources to better assess a patient's risk for substance use disorder.

The Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Commission -- made up of health professionals, law enforcement officers, substance abuse treatment providers, government officials and citizens -- advises state agencies and the governor's office on prevention, treatment and policy related to the opioid crisis.

Learn what you can do at Michigan.gov/stopoverdoses.

MICHIGAN'S OPIOID CRISIS AFFECTS EVERYONE.

So it takes all of us working together to end it.

The opioid crisis is widespread. It's affecting people of all ages, genders and races all across the country. The State of Michigan is fighting this epidemic with a unified team. You can help by being aware of and sharing these resources and programs with friends and family. Together we can stop overdoses.

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services is committed to building awareness of the growing opioid problem by running a statewide educational campaign and supporting local treatment services. All across Michigan there are treatment options, resources and support for Michigan families affected by this crisis.

The Michigan State Police Angel Program allows an individual struggling with drug addiction to walk into a state police post during regular business hours and ask for assistance. If accepted into the program, an "Angel" volunteer will support the person during the process and provide transportation to a treatment facility.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality Drug Take Back Program educates and promotes proper drug disposal to the public and healthcare providers. Find drug disposal resources, residential takeback locations, and educational materials such as shareable videos at www.michigan.gov/deqdrugdisposal.

The Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs administers the Michigan Automated Prescription System (MAPS). MAPS is a software tool that provides prescribers and dispensers with real-time prescription data and analytics to help clinicians make informed decisions and additional resources to better assess a patient's risk for substance use disorder.

The Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Commission -- made up of health professionals, law enforcement officers, substance abuse treatment providers, government officials and citizens -- advises state agencies and the governor's office on prevention, treatment and policy related to the opioid crisis.

Learn what you can do at Michigan.gov/stopoverdoses.

To fight opioid abuse, we have a prescription of hope for Michigan.

The opioid crisis is widespread. It's affecting people of all ages, genders and races all across the country. The State of Michigan is fighting this epidemic with a unified team. You can help by being aware of and sharing these resources and programs with friends and family. Together we can stop overdoses.

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services is committed to building awareness of the growing opioid problem by running a statewide educational campaign and supporting local treatment services. All across Michigan there are treatment options, resources and support for Michigan families affected by this crisis.

The Michigan State Police Angel Program allows an individual struggling with drug addiction to walk into a state police post during regular business hours and ask for assistance. If accepted into the program, an "Angel" volunteer will support the person during the process and provide transportation to a treatment facility.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality Drug Take Back Program educates and promotes proper drug disposal to the public and healthcare providers. Find drug disposal resources, residential takeback locations, and educational materials such as shareable videos at www.michigan.gov/deqdrugdisposal.

The Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs administers the Michigan Automated Prescription System (MAPS). MAPS is a software tool that provides prescribers and dispensers with real-time prescription data and analytics to help clinicians make informed decisions and additional resources to better assess a patient's risk for substance use disorder.

The Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Commission -- made up of health professionals, law enforcement officers, substance abuse treatment providers, government officials and citizens -- advises state agencies and the governor's office on prevention, treatment and policy related to the opioid crisis.

Learn what you can do at Michigan.gov/stopoverdoses.

