Designed in 1948, Sara and Melvin Maxwell Smith House remains complete with its original furnishings. Frank Lloyd Wright felt that the Smith House so embodied his goals in designing a house that he gave it a Cherokee-red signature plaque thus marking it as one of his best homes. Adding to the house is artwork by Cranbrook Academy of Art artists and grounds landscaped by Thomas Church, designer of the grounds at such places as Stanford University and GM Technical Center.

The bus will leave from the oval in front of Cranbrook Art Museum at the times indicated above. Please check in at the front desk of the Art Museum no later than 15 minutes prior to the departure time.

Before or after the tour, visit Cranbrook Art Museum to see Frank Lloyd Wright's original drawings in the exhibition Artists At Work: Instructional Drawings from the Collection of Gilbert and Lila Silverman, as well as Wright-designed leaded glass window in the exhibition Treasures of Cranbrook Art Museum: Selections from the Permanent Collection.

If you need to contact us on the day of the tour, please call 248-645-3320.

Cranbrook Art Museum is located on the campus of Cranbrook Educational Community at 39221 Woodward Avenue in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, between Lone Pine and Long Lake roads two miles north of downtown Birmingham. Enter on the west side of Woodward Avenue and go down the road; at the second stop sign turn right. You will see the Art Museum on your left. Turn left and follow the oval drive into the parking lot.
