Scoring Rubric - Grades 3-8, and 11

	Writing	Drawing
4	The writing focuses on the topic. The topic may not be explicitly stated, but can be easily inferred by the reader. The text includes appropriate details and/or examples based on the student's prior knowledge and experience. There is a clear organizational structure with transitions between ideas, resulting in a unified whole. The writing demonstrates use of mostly precise word choice and syntax. Errors in language conventions (e.g., grammar, spelling, punctuation, and capitalization) do not interfere with understanding.	The drawing focuses on the topic. Pertinent details and/or examples based on the student's prior knowledge and experience are: (1) clearly present in the drawing; (2) present in the drawing and enhanced through written explanation by the student and/or transcribed oral explanation by the assessment administrator; or (3) provided solely through written and/or transcribed oral explanation. The visual text presents a logical organization and arrangement of figures. Errors in language and visual conventions (e.g., composition, perspective, shape, and clarity) do not interfere with understanding.
3	The writing is mostly on topic. The topic may not be explicitly stated, but can be inferred with little effort by the reader. There is some development of the topic with appropriate details and/or examples. The text reflects a mostly organized structure and may include transitions between ideas. The writing demonstrates some attention to word choice and syntax. Errors in language conventions (e.g., grammar, spelling, punctuation, and capitalization) may slightly interfere with understanding.	The drawing is mostly on topic. Some details and/or examples are (1) present in the drawing; (2) mostly present in the drawing and supported through written and/or transcribed oral explanation; or (3) are provided solely through written and/or transcribed oral explanation. The visual text presents an attempt at logical organization and arrangement of figures. Errors in language and visual conventions (e.g., composition, perspective, shape, and clarity) may slightly interfere with understanding.
2	The writing is somewhat on topic. If not explicitly stated, the topic may not be easily inferred. There is limited development with simplistic details and/or examples. The focus may wander. The writing lacks a clear organizational structure, and ideas may be repetitive. Errors in language conventions (e.g., grammar, spelling, punctuation, and capitalization) may make understanding difficult.	The drawing is somewhat on topic, but is developed with limited details and/or examples that are (1) present in the drawing; (2) present in the drawing and supported through minimal written and/or transcribed oral explanation; or (3) presented solely through minimal written and/or transcribed oral explanation. The visual text lacks a clear structure and arrangement of figures. Errors in language and visual conventions (e.g., composition, perspective, shape, and clarity) may make understanding difficult.
1	The writing shows some evidence of an attempt to respond to the prompt, although there is little or no development of the topic and little direction. The vocabulary may be limited to one or two words, not a complete sentence. The text may show minimal sound/letter correspondence and use of language conventions. Errors may make understanding nearly impossible.	The drawing shows some evidence of an attempt to respond to the prompt, yet it presents little or no development of the topic and is supported with little to no written or transcribed oral explanation. SOME RULES ON A BUS ARE, WHEN YOU
GET TO A TRAIN TRACK YOU HAVE TO BE QUIET SO THE BUS DRIVER CAN SEE IF THERE IS A TRAIN COMING.

DO NOT SIT IN YOUR SEAT YOU SHOULD FALL AND BRAICK SOMETHING. THAT ARE SOME RULES ON THE

The drawing illustrates figures performing various activities (figure standing on the seat, figure eating, figure playing music). The drawing presents an attempt at logical organization and arrangement of figures that enhances the text.

The rules on the bus are for keeping the kids safe. The rules are no standing on the bus, keeping hands in the bus, throwing away the trash, no hitting, no yelling/shouting, keeping feet to yourself, no throwing things out the window. If the kids don't follow the rules, they get in trouble.

The first rule on the bus is to sit down and keep all arms and legs at all times. The second rule is no switching seats while the bus is moving or else you might hit your head or slip and fall. The third should be, no kissing... The fourth rule is no swearing or making really loud noise's, so the bus driver can focus on the road. The final rule on the bus is, you should always ask the bus driver for permission to do something you want.

ANCHOR PAPER 11Score Point: 3

This response is mostly on topic, and there is some development of the topic with appropriate details (you might hit your head, so the driver can focus on the road). There's not a lot of rules to follow but the next of them are simple all you have to do is sit down.

and no "horseplay". What you can do is put music on but not too loud. You can sing on the bus. like this song, "We're going on a trip in our favourite rocket zooming through the sky Little Einsteins!" It's also important to keep your feet inside the seats because

you might trip someone and he or she will break

her nose. So that's it all there is to just follow the simplest rules.

ANCHOR PAPER 12*Score Point: 4

This response focuses on following simple rules, and the text includes appropriate details and examples (you can put music on, you can sing...like this song). It is clearly organized with an introduction (Theres not a lot), conclusion (So thats it), and transitions between ideas (Its also important), resulting in a unified whole. The writing demonstrates use of mostly precise word choice (zooming, Little Einstiens). Errors in language conventions do not interfere with understanding.

One might say there's no need for rules
on the bus, well he's wrong. Don't listen to him.

Of course there are rules needed
on the bus. One, you can talk, sure, but don't yell. Bus drivers don't need their ears bleeding from side to side.

Two, you can share stuff, but don't throw stuff. This will then lead to a riot, and the driver will have to stop the bus, and you'll be late, and it's ALL

YOUR FAULT. In conclusion, be good on the bus, or you'll be on the driver's wanted poster,

ANCHOR PAPER 13Score Point: 4

This response focuses on the consequences of not following the rules, and the text includes appropriate details and example (This will then lead to a riot, and the driver will have to stop). It is clearly organized with an introduction (One might say), conclusion (be good on the bus), and transitions between ideas (Of course, This will then lead to...), resulting in a unified whole. The writing demonstrates use of mostly precise word choice (bleeding, wanted poster). Errors in language conventions do not interfere with understanding.

The rules on the bus are one to a seat and hands to yourself. Be quit don't be really loud. Trust me when you get in trouble on the bus it's not good either you get kicked off the bus or get in trouble at school and that's even worse. The last time I got in trouble on the bus for fighting it was bad I got kicked off the bus for two weeks and trust me it was not fun my mom was mad she had to take me to school every day for two weeks. It wasn't pretty
It even got in trouble at home and I was not happy. I was mad.

The bus driver sat tell all of the students hoped on the bus. Then she stood up and said the rows. The kids listened. The bus driver, said the first one is keep your hands and lages in all times. Sent be quiet when I am getting ready to pass a train track. There is keep your lages and hands to your self and forth have your stuff on your lap or on the ground. And now were off. She slammed the door. They pulled out of school. And it was so fast that pulled in the air they were too past to be. The bus driver said your students are a lot better then the last students that went to a trip. Then the teacher said thanks. And the bus driver said go and have fun.
