

BLEEDING CONTROL KITS

STOP THE BLEED®

The Bureau of EMS, Trauma and Preparedness, Trauma Section is supporting a national initiative to train bystanders in bleeding control. The Stop the Bleed program is supported by the American College of Surgeons and other partners. The training provides simple instructions on wound packing and the appropriate application of a tourniquet for first responders and community members.

Bleeding Control kits were purchased from the American College of Surgeons to assist in practical demonstrations of bleeding control. Kits come with gauze, Z-Medica Hemorrhage Control Training™ legs, C-A-T™ tourniquets, gloves, and a training booklet and poster. Also included is an instructor binder and a Course Provider Responsibility form which include directions for course participants to complete a brief survey after the training is conducted.

Instructors wishing to borrow the kits for training may contact the Regional Trauma Coordinator in their region to arrange to use the training kit.
