

A recipient of mental health services has the right:

To receive services suited to his or her individual needs and condition, as required by a written plan of service, developed through a person-centered planning process

1

To receive those services in a safe, sanitary and humane treatment environment

2

To be free from abuse and neglect, and treated with dignity and respect.

3

