

Public Asked to Help Identify Female Victim

Body found near New Buffalo Township in August 1992

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

August 20, 2009

BRIDGMAN, MICH. The Michigan State Police (MSP) Bridgman Post is asking the public to help identify an unknown female victim who has gone 17 years without a name.

A sketch of the victim

The unidentified body was found on August 23, 1992, by a pedestrian walking along Krueger Road east of Red Arrow Highway in New Buffalo Township. A medical examiner determined the victim was deceased for four to seven days before being dumped along the road, approximately 24 hours prior to discovery. The body was wrapped in a sheet, towel and garbage bags, and bound with twine.

The victim is a white female with white hair and brown eyes, who was between 65 and 75 years old at her death. She was approximately 5'2" tall, weighed 103 pounds and wore dentures. Detectives believe the victim may have lived in northern Illinois or Indiana in a care facility due to an illness.

Anyone with information about this unidentified victim is asked to contact the MSP Bridgman Post at (269) 465-3111.
