Be a part of Michigan's future.

You've been selected to apply to serve on the Michigan Independent Citizens Redistricting Commission!

Through a random selection process, your name was chosen to receive this application.

In November 2018, Michigan voters amended the state Constitution to create a citizen-led redistricting process. A commission of 13 randomly-selected citizens will be responsible for drawing district lines for the Michigan Senate, Michigan House of Representatives, and U.S. Congress.

You now have a unique opportunity to get involved in this process and, in doing so, help draw fair, representative districts for the entire state.

What's a commissioner?

As a commissioner, you'll collaborate with other Michigan citizens to create fair, representative districts. You do not need any specific skills or expertise to serve on the Commission. The constitution simply requires that each commissioner "perform his or her duties in a manner that is impartial and reinforces public confidence in the integrity of the redistricting process."

Here are some things you need to know about what it's like to serve in this special role. More details are available at RedistrictingMichigan.org, but general responsibilities of commissioners include:

Draw the district lines for the Michigan Senate, Michigan House of Representatives, and U.S. Congress.

Gather input from the public through public meetings.

Utilize 2020 census data and to public input to inform decisions about where to draw district lines.

Work collaboratively with 12 other commissioners to draw and finalize the districts.

Return this paper copy after you fill it out, or complete and submit it online at RedistrictingMichigan.org

Optional: Why do you care about this?

If you would like to further elaborate on your political party affiliation or your desire to serve as a commissioner, you may use the space to the right to do so.

You don't need to provide any further information in order to serve on the Commission. Any additional information you provide won't impact your eligibility or selection as one of the 200 semi-finalists.

If you're randomly selected, any additional information you provide will be made public and submitted to the legislative leaders reviewing your application. Specifically, the Speaker of the House, House Minority Leader, Senate Majority Leader, and Senate Minority leader may each remove up to five (5) applicants before the final random draw.

Here are some important things to know before you start.

The law includes some criteria for who can serve on this commission.

The questions in this section of the application make sure you're eligible and don't have any conflicts that might keep you from serving on the Citizens Redistricting Commission.

Answer these questions to the best of your ability. If you have any concerns or feel you're unable to answer a given prompt, please contact Redistricting@Michigan.gov

Why do you want to serve on the Michigan Independent Citizens Redistricting Commission?
Suggested length approximately 0 - 500 words.

I majored in political science at Knox College with a minor in history. I attended the University of Illinois ^{law school} for a year and a half. I received a masters degree in marketing from Illinois with a thesis on Jesse Jackson's Operation Breakthrough. I have a masters degree in theology from McCormick Seminary. In my 20's I was a GOP precinct committeeman. I am familiar with the complexities of redistricting regarding gerrymandering, keeping contiguous ^{compact} districts, assuring that large minorities are represented, etc.

Describe why or how you affiliate with either the Democratic Party, the Republican Party, or why you don't affiliate with either. Suggested length approximately 0 - 500 words.

As an ordained, active United Methodist pastor in Ohio and Illinois for 49 years, I had to avoid political involvements. I had been ^{in my 20's} an active liberal Republican but the party left me. I am a liberal independent believing in civil rights for all. I believe in the capitalist system with reasonable government regulations that protect the consumers, employees, minorities of all types, our economy and the nation. Election laws and districts should ^{be} discouraging anyone to vote.

What's redistricting?

Every 10 years when we complete the U.S. Census, we gain new data about where people live. We use this data and other information to redraw the lines that define districts out of which we elect political leaders. This process of determining district lines is known as "redistricting."

In Michigan, a randomly selected group of citizens (a "commission") is responsible for drawing these lines. These lines are important because they determine how voters will be grouped together to elect representatives to the U.S. Congress and Michigan's House and Senate.

The Michigan Independent Citizens Redistricting Commission will be composed of 13 Michigan registered voters: four who affiliate with the Democratic Party, four who affiliate with the Republican Party and five who do not affiliate with either of those political parties.
