

Tip of the Week: December 21, 2009

Topic: Dear SABby Signing Off

Dear SABby,

I heard that you're Tip of the Week publication is ending. Is that true? Myself, and others in our assessing office, have not only enjoyed reading the Tip of the Week but it has offered valuable quick information for our use. Will this type of information be available to us in another form?

Sincerely,
Avid Reader

Dear Ms. Reader:

Thank you so much for the kind words. It is very much appreciated. I have enjoyed my time doing the Tip of the Week and the readers who have contributed to its success.

While I may be heading for warm, sunny Florida, my sister STaCy will remain and take over the family business. Topics related to assessor education and certification will be incorporated into her Dear STaCy bi-weekly column beginning in January called STC Tips, along with other information related to assessment administration. Both the Dear STaCy Tips and the Dear SABby Tips will be available on the Commission's website under STC Tips at www.michigan.gov/statetaxcommission (not a live link).

Thanks again for the great run and keep on reading.

Signing Off,
SABby
