SUICIDE R.I.T TRAINING

SUICIDE PREVENTION AND INTERVENTION TRAINING FOR FIRST RESPONDERS

SPOT THE SIGNS. STEP IN WITH CONFIDENCE. SAVE A LIFE.

On the job, you're trained to have each other's backs. But what happens when the danger isn't physical?
Suicide R.I.T. Training gives first responders the ability to recognize warning signs of suicide and the confidence to intervene — having a real conversation with that person to help get them the support they need.

You'll learn to:

- Recognize early signs of PTSD and suicide in friends, family, and co-workers
- Approach someone who may be suicidal and ask them if they are suicidal
- Talk to a person who is suicidal to intervene and try to get them to the resources they need
