Nutrition Information

- 1 ounce of canned chicken counts as 1 ounce in the ChooseMyPlate.gov Protein group.
- All foods made from meat, poultry, seafood, beans and peas, eggs, processed soy products, nuts, and seeds are considered part of the Protein Foods Group. Beans and peas can also be considered a part of the Vegetable Group.
- Eat a variety of protein foods to improve nutrient intake and health benefits.
- Chicken supplies many nutrients such as protein, B vitamins (niacin, thiamin, riboflavin, and B6), vitamin E, iron, zinc, and magnesium.

Uses and Tips

- Canned chicken is fully cooked, so it is safe to eat without cooking. If heated, serve right away or refrigerate leftovers in a container that is not made from metal.
- Canned chicken can be added to sandwiches, casseroles, soups, or salads.

Storing Foods at Home

- Store unopened cans in a cool, clean, dry place.
- Store remaining opened chicken in a tightly covered container that is not made from metal in the refrigerator.

MyPlate Facts

- Proteins are one of three nutrients that provide calories (the others are fat and carbohydrates).
- Proteins function as building blocks for bones, muscles, cartilage, skin, and blood. They are also building blocks for enzymes, hormones, and vitamins.
- Nutrients provided by protein foods can differ. Varying your protein food choices can provide your body with a range of nutrients that will help to keep your body working well.
- B vitamins help build tissue and aid in forming red blood cells. Iron can prevent anemia. Magnesium helps build bones and supports muscle function. Zinc can support your immune systems.
