

FY 2025 Appropriation Report
Public Act 121 of 2024, Section 1108
September 2025

FY 2025 appropriation language:

By not later than September 30, 2025, the department shall provide to the senate and house transportation committees and the standard report recipients a list of projects from across this state and within the 2025 construction season that benefited from the incorporation of best environmental practices, including, but not limited to, the use of bioswales, biofilters, and other vegetated channels.

MDOT environmental best practices

MDOT utilizes many practices to maintain compliance with the current state and federal environmental regulations, and interprets “the use of bioswales, biofilters, and other vegetated channels” as practices applying to stormwater management. These practices include developing specifications and special provisions for use during design and construction, obtaining necessary permits, and coordinating with agencies to address local requirements. In addition, all MDOT projects are expected to comply with the following criteria:

- MDOT Standard Specifications for Construction
- Soil erosion and sedimentation control during construction
- Federal National Environmental Protection Act (NEPA) compliance
- State Natural Resources and Environmental Policy Act (NREPA) compliance
- Municipal Separate Storm Sewer System (MS4) permit compliance for stormwater discharges

The table on the subsequent pages of this report is the list of MDOT 2025 construction season projects that included “best environmental practices.”
