

Proposal Submittal Requirements – Linked Digital Resources

MDOT has identified a trend in which Consultants, when submitting responses to MDOT's Request for Proposals, (RFP's), are adding additional information by including links to digital resources such as YouTube and/or other web-based platforms. Linking to additional information gives the impression that submitting firms may be seeking to circumvent page limitation requirements, as defined by MDOT's Selection Guidelines for Service Contracts.

Unless otherwise specified in the RFP, MDOT is requesting consultant submittals exclude links to digital resources and include only information which does not exceed maximum page limit requirements. All future response submittals containing links to digital resources and/or not adhering to selection guidelines may be deemed non-responsive.
