Tayler,

The report discussed ABATE's comments regarding Rule 411 but it only included part of ours proposed revisions (did not include the definition edits and did not include the examples). We believe it's important for the Commissioners to see those examples and the complete proposed edits to the rule.

Also, the report states, "To the extent ABATE or other commenters propose revised language that narrowly targets specific, unique situations where an existing industrial customer should be treated like a prospective industrial customer, Staff will consider such comments in preparing its final report and draft ruleset to be submitted to the Commission in December." We believe the proposed language and the examples the language is intended to address do narrowly target specific, unique situations. We are unsure how to modify the language we have provided to more "narrowly target specific, unique situations." However we will work with staff to review some specific, actual situations.

Thank you

Rod E. Williamson
