Any Michigan high school is encouraged to apply for Strive for a Safer Drive (S4SD). The program is a high school safe driving initiative, led by teens. Participating high schools will receive $1,000 to create a student-led traffic safety awareness campaign. To apply, each school will need an advisor overseeing the initiative and a student(s) to take the lead.

WHAT'S IN THIS MONTH'S ISSUE:

- Tips On Applying
- Important deadlines

S4SD often is organized by many organizations such as SADD, student council, leadership, criminal justice, and athletic teams. Students have an opportunity to gain life skills enhancing their communication, financial literacy, community involvement, and time-management skills. The application must be completed with an advisor followed by a proposal outlining what the S4SD campaign and budget, with a $1,000 grant provided, will consist of.
