

Juan Martinez

Juan Martinez- is the former Director of the MSU Extension and also a founding member of the Chicano/Latino Studies program at MSU. From 1999 to 2002, he worked for US Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman as the national program coordinator on farm workers, where he secured over $20million to support MSFW's negatives impacted by natural disasters. He established the first Hispanic farmer's cooperative in Michigan. His passion for documenting Latinx history helped to establish the oral history project Mexican Voices, Michigan Lives.

LATINO LEGACY LEADER