GOVERNOR WHITMER'S PLAN TO MAKE IT IN MICHIGAN

THE CHALLENGE

Michigan's economy is growing but we are competing with the world. As companies make decisions about where to expand production or shift manufacturing, we must work together to make sure that the answer is Michigan. We must also make sure young people see Michigan as the place where they can build their future.

THE PLAN

Governor Whitmer's Make it in Michigan Package proposes establishing a sustainable funding source for the state's bipartisan economic development efforts while growing talent, making our communities better place to live, and helping our state become a place where anyone can thrive. That means we're competing to bring more jobs for you and your family here to Michigan. Together, we can move faster to compete for companies on the cutting-edge of manufacturing, and bring more supply chains home. Getting this done will create long-term economic opportunity building cars, chips, and clean energy in our state and help ensure young people deciding where to start their lives choose Michigan.

THE STORIES

AMBER FROM HEMLOCK

Amber has worked her way up the ladder at her Semiconductor facility since hiring in 16 years ago. Her years of experience made her a critical part of the 2022 expansion of the Hemlock facility where she works. Now, Amber's company has transitioned 400 contract workers into full-time positions, creating more opportunities for the people of Hemlock.

BRYAN FROM BAY CITY

Bryan has lived in Bay City his whole life and was worried he would have to look elsewhere for a good-paying job. Now, he doesn't have to because Michigan brought home an SK Siltron chip facility to Bay City. Bryan has a great, in-demand job, and his facility has plenty of room to grow. He can stay in his community and build the life he's always wanted, right here in Michigan. Now, it's time for every person to have the experience of a stable, good-paying job in their hometown. Michiganders work hard, and they deserve the opportunity to do so close to home.
