Today, Michigan is stronger than ever, bolstered by billions in federal stimulus dollars, a $7 billion budget surplus, and the third-highest GDP growth in the country. Governor Whitmer will continue pursuing investments in infrastructure, higher education and skills program, and industries of the future to create even more good-paying jobs and ushering in a new era of prosperity for Michigan.

"We need to stay laser-focused on growing Michigan's economy, creating more good-paying jobs, and lowering costs for families, seniors, and small businesses. Together, we can build an economy that works for every worker, every business, and every community. We will continue investing in the kitchen-table economic issues to ensure that Michiganders have more money in their pockets and spend less to get by."
